Embrace a growth mindset

'I don't divide the world into weak and strong or successes and failures. I divide the world into learners and non learners.'

- Benjamin Barbar

Growth vs fixed mindset

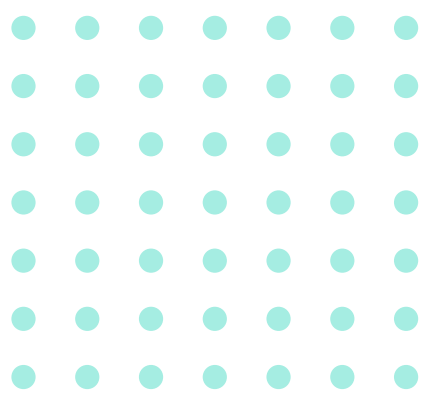

According to Dweck, when someone has a fixed mindset, they believe that their basic abilities, intelligence, and talents are fixed traits.

In a growth mindset, however, someone believe their abilities and intelligence can be developed with effort, learning, and persistence.

What is a growth mindset?

Skills are learned activities or tasks that can be obtained with experience and training.

With a growth mindset, people believe that their most basic abilities can be developed through dedication and hard work - intelligence and talent are just the starting point.

What is a growth mindset?

Competencies are a collection of skills, knowledge and abilities.

Fixed mindset: 'Anna is a very talented painter. I will never be as good of a painter as Anna.'

Growth mindset: Regardless of talent, you can work and learn to become great at anything. It takes practice and discipline to become good/great at something.
