

Diploma in

Leadership & Management

Your Guide to Diversity Management

Discuss future leadership and transformational roles ◀

Understand the importance of leading in a multi-generational environment ◀

Acquire a multicultural mindset ◀

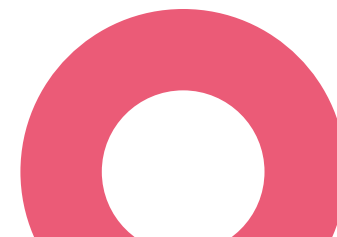

Objectives

Future leadership and transformational roles

Vision is the art of seeing the invisible.
Jonathan Swift

Uncertain times

Businesses must be more socially aware and focus on how they go about creating value.

- Changing work practices
- |
- Pace of change
- |
- Political events
- |
- Economic policies
- |
- Cultural and societal norms
- |
- Changing business strategies

Uncertain times

How do leaders
create long term
sustainable value
that is seen as positive for everyone: society and shareholders?

● Sustainable value

● Shared value

● Is the business shaping society?

Uncertain times

To thrive in the future environment, successful leaders scan their environment to determine impending changes and new opportunities.

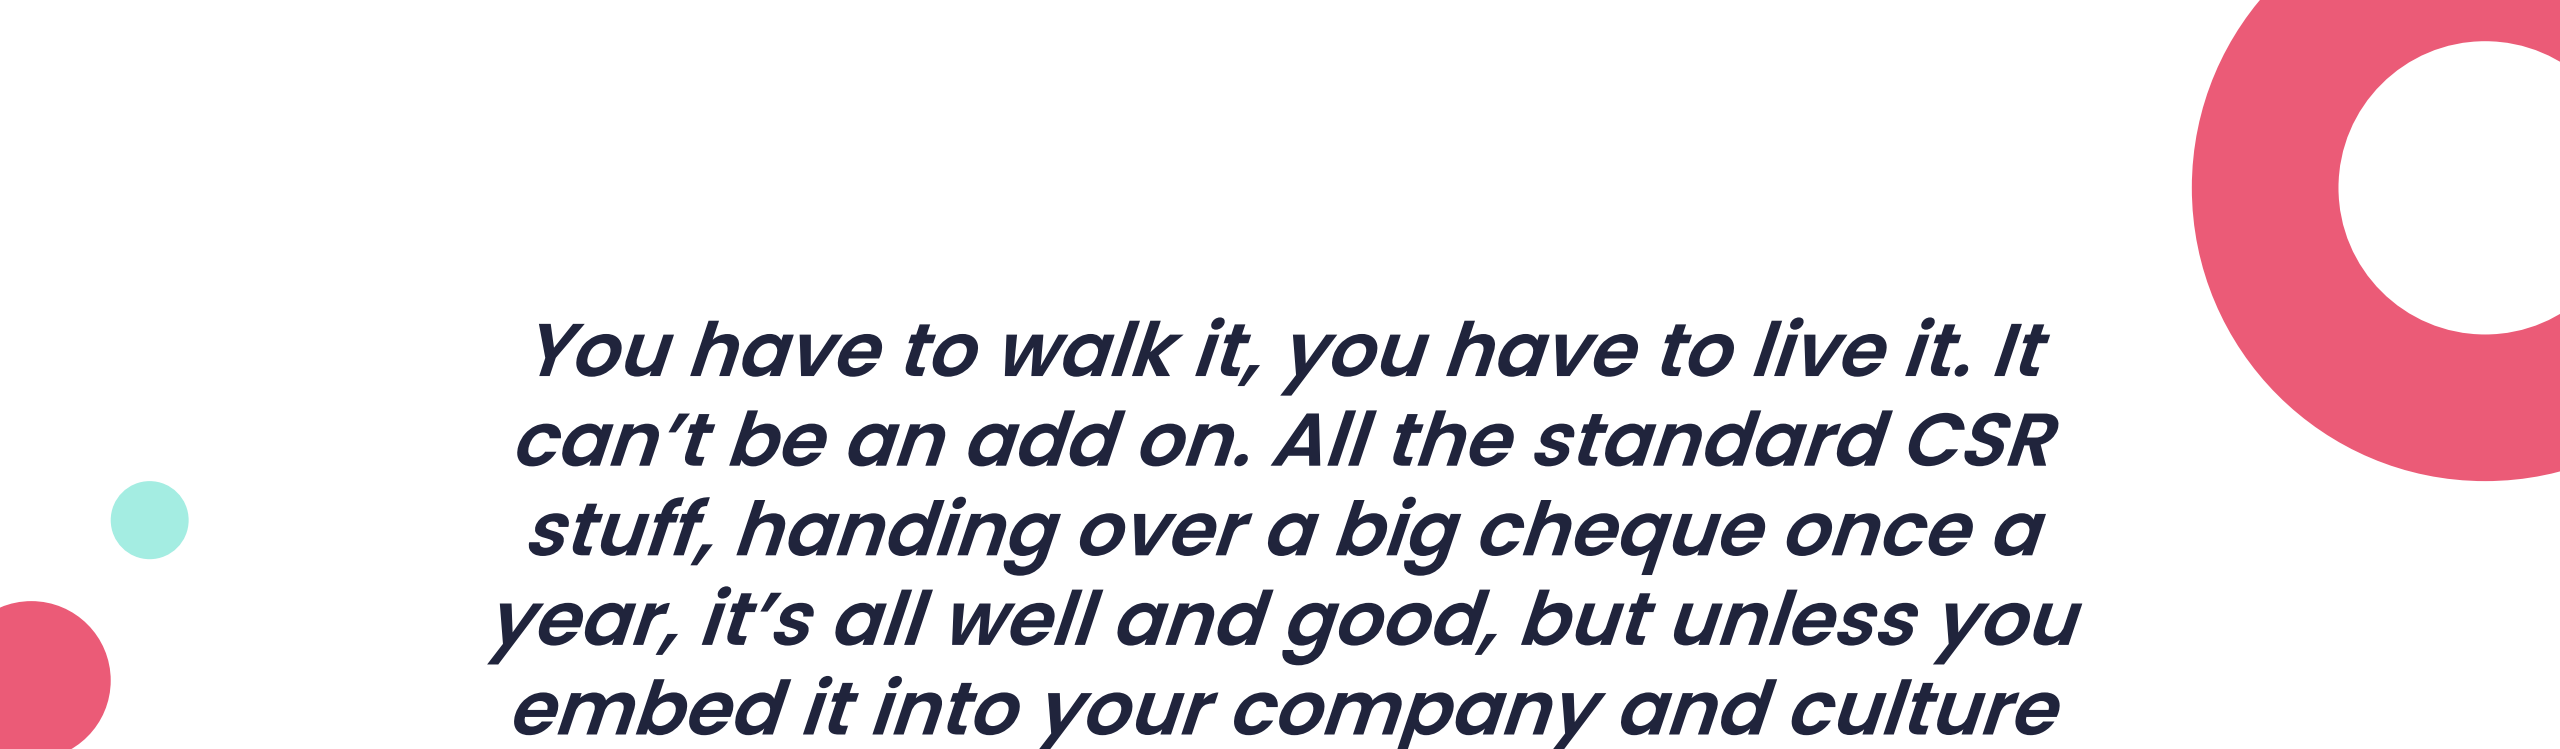

Capacity of adaptability

“What got us here won’t get us there.”

Leaders can add value

- Agility
- Authenticity
- Talent
- Sustainability

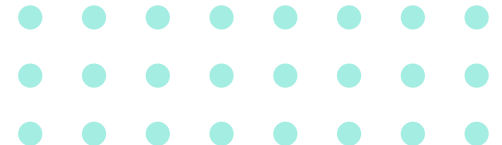

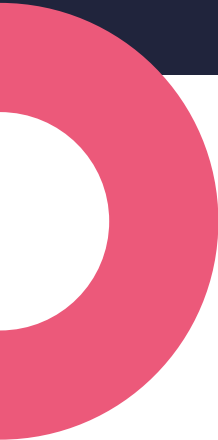

You have to walk it, you have to live it. It can't be an add on. All the standard CSR stuff, handing over a big cheque once a year, it's all well and good, but unless you embed it into your company and culture and it becomes part of what your business is, then nine times out of ten it's lip service.

And what's the point of that?

Paul Corcoran

Challenges facing leaders each day

External challenges

How to cope

Internal
challenges

Overcome limitations

Challenges are constant

Be aware

Leading a multi-generational environment

For the first time in modern history, workplace demographics now span four generations, meaning that 20-year-old new hires can find themselves working side-by-side with colleagues who are older than they are by 50 years (or even more).

Susan A. Murphy

Generations

Born 1946-1964
(53-71 years old)

Baby Boomers 29%
Boomers, Vietnam Generation, and Me Generation

Born 1965-1980
(37-52 years old)

Generation X 34%
GenX, Baby Busters, Twenty-somethings, Thirteenth Generation (since the American Revolution), and Post-Boomers

Born 1980-2000
(18-36 years old)

Millennial generation 34%
Generation Y, Internet Generation, Echo Boomers, Nexters, Nintendo Generation and Digital Generation

Generation Z Under 16s

Question

Which generation do you belong to?

Challenges facing leaders leading today

From 18-80:

Managing the needs and expectations of millennials, generation X and the baby boomers

Negative stereotyping:

“Too eager” or “too stuck in their ways”

Benefits of a multi-generational workforce

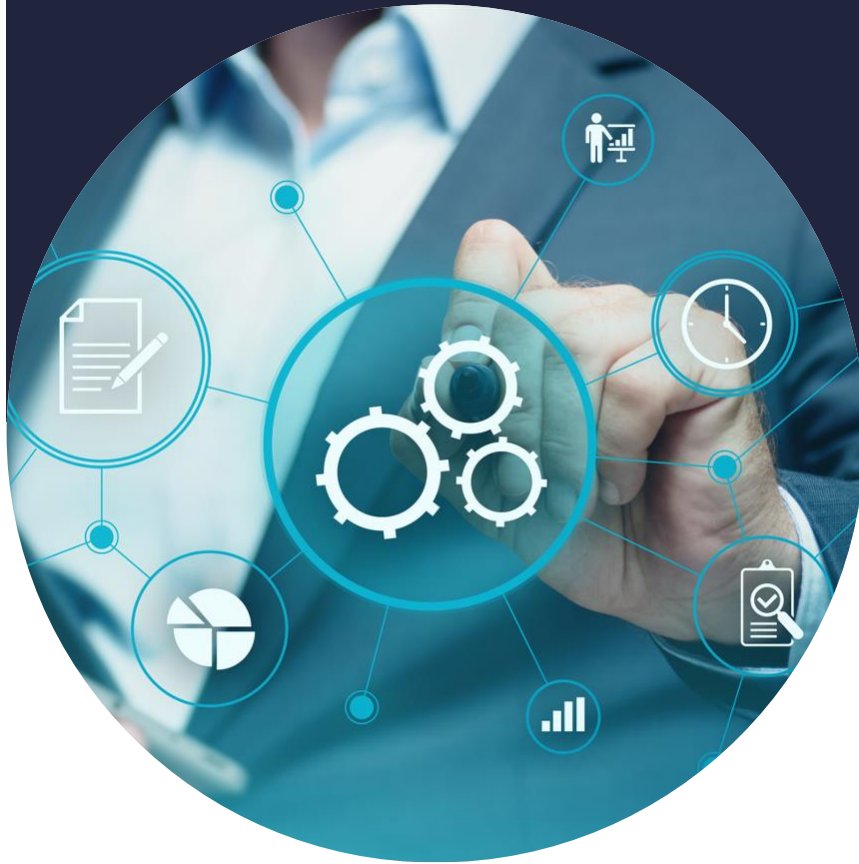

- Talent of all ages
- Increased market share
- More perspectives
- More innovation and creativity
- Relates to a diverse public

Question

What is the biggest obstacle your generation is facing?

What leaders can do?

- Educate employees on generation issues.
- Prevent brain drain.
- Promote fairness and equal opportunities.

What leaders can do?

- Refine recruitment practices.
- Look for the right talent.
- Attract young talent.
- Commit to age diversity.

Question

Which generation is currently the largest community in your workplace?

Acquiring a multi-cultural mindset

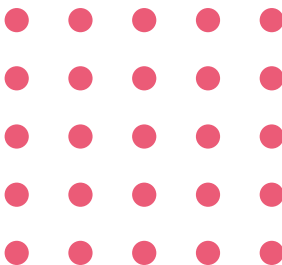

Adapting to 'new' cultures

Serve the company by adapting to the host culture

Lead with humility and patience

Align the company vision and national culture

Serve the company by adapting to the host culture

Adapt national culture norms to the target culture

Commit to listening

Don't have preconceived ideas

Try to understand your customers and employees

Lead with humility and patience

Show sincerity in learning the culture

Avoid aggressive leadership styles

Establish yourself as a credible team member

Serve the company by adapting to the host culture

Don't lose what is unique

Don't lose well-known business practices in favour of cultural compliance

Challenges of leading with diversity

- Behaviours
- Frustration
- Efficiency and decision making
- Motivation/de-motivation

Leaders embrace diversity

- Increase, productivity, creativity and innovation
- Globalisation
- Gain perspective
- End discrimination

Challenge

- Speak to employees from different generations and seek to understand their needs and motivations at work.
- Do research to better understand each generation.

