

Diploma in

Leadership and Management

We're Going Virtual Part 2

Explore the emergence of virtual interviews <

Discuss remote onboarding processes <

Explore virtual onboarding <

Objectives

Virtual Interviews

Virtual interviews

A virtual interview is an interview that takes place remotely, sometimes over the phone, but often using technology like video conferencing and other online communication platforms.

When to use virtual interviews

- Different time-zones
- Screening numerous candidates
- Intangible skills
- Test the resume
- When expanding

Virtual interviews

Give the interviewee
enough time

Standardise your rating
system

Select the correct space
for the interview

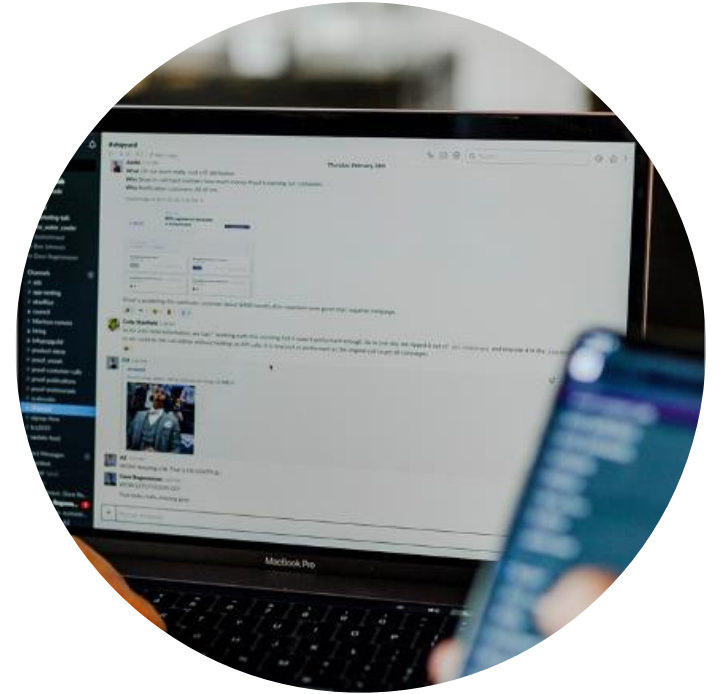

Best practices for virtual meetings

Outline questions

Test your connection

Send the invitation via email

Virtual meeting etiquette

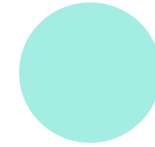

- Avoid typing
- Dress the part
- Check your surroundings
- Mute
- Speak up
- Avoid eating

How to conduct a virtual meeting

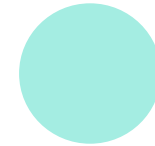

Two

Take the same approach as the
in-person
interview

One

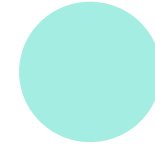

Look the part

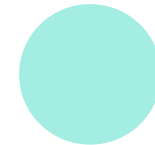

Three

Record answers

Four

Allow enough
time for answers

Five

Discuss the company culture
and values

End

Onboarding processes

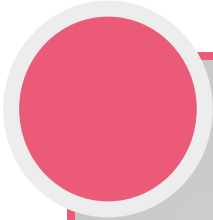

Onboarding explained

Onboarding is a human resources industry term referring to the process of introducing a newly hired employee into an organisation.

Onboarding consists of multiple individual processes; however, it has no official definition and opinions still vary as to which processes fall under the umbrella of onboarding.

Types of onboarding

Operational
onboarding

Knowledge
onboarding

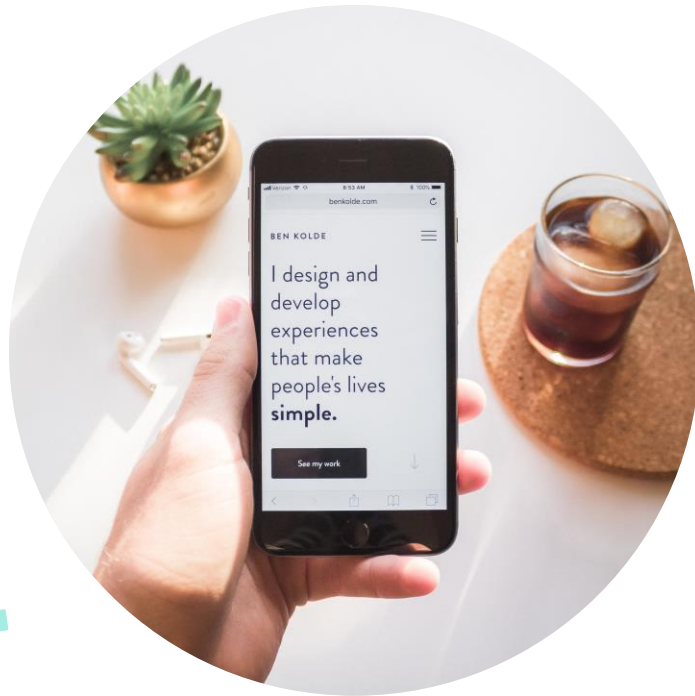

Performance
onboarding

Social
onboarding

Impact of onboarding

Increased employer branding

Increased productivity

Employee retention

How to create a successful onboarding program?

- Engage new hires
- Start from day one
- Lead with culture
- Make onboarding a social experience

How to create a successful onboarding program?

- Go beyond digital onboarding
- Consider the career journey
- Create a pilot onboarding program
- Measure outcomes

Why do so many onboarding programs fail?

Managers and leaders
are not involved

Balance programme
content

Lack of culture

Why do so many onboarding programmes fail?

It's all about fitting in

Lack of measurement